

Highland Performing Arts Patrons

Thank You!

Your love of music, expressed through your financial help, makes it possible to offer this ministry of nurture and renewal. Your tax-deductible contributions can be made by check (payable to Highland Presbyterian Church with HPA on the memo line and mailed to 500 E. Roseville Rd., Lancaster, PA 17601) or online at highlandpc.org/give.

Our season runs from September 1 to August 31. Patrons who contribute during the season or the previous quarter (June 1 to August 31) are listed in HPA concert programs. We strive to maintain an accurate list, but please alert us to any errors or missing information.

The Heritage Chorale of Lancaster is a state-chartered not-for-profit private educational organization that strives to inspire listeners to a renewed appreciation of the rich and varied choral legacy that has been an integral part of our heritage.

The Chorale presents two distinct concert programs every spring and Christmas. Concerts are performed throughout South Central Pennsylvania and have included noteworthy locations such as the Washington National Cathedral, Longwood Gardens, and Bruton Parish Church in Williamsburg.

Founded in 1994 and reorganized in 2001, the Chorale relies on the financial support of patrons who share our passion for choral music. Our singers give generously of their time and talents to enrich the culture and life of the Lancaster area.

Barry Sawyer has had a varied musical career as soloist, cantor, and artistic director. He has studied performance and direction in Germany and the US and has served as choir director in numerous churches throughout Lancaster County. Barry also currently serves as the Director of the Lancaster Liederkrantz Chorus.

Jordan Groh has been a piano accompanist for more than 20 years throughout Lancaster County. As a student and graduate of Penn Manor High School, he has accompanied the school’s concert choir, select vocal groups, and musical theater performances. Jordan grew up as a church pianist accompanying both youth and adult worship teams at two different churches.
